

with pores extended vertically to the felt strip, and heat emboss pattern on such layer with small repetitive shapes (59) such as square or diamond shapes to collect water in these interstices (60) and can be removed by wiping the grip with a towel (not shown) (please see published specification of '534 col. 4 lines 40-45). "The polyurethane layer of strip segment S2 may be formed in a conventional manner by coating a felt strip with one or more solutions of polyurethane (e.g., polyester or polyether) dissolved in a dimethyl formamide (DMF), immersing the coated strip in water baths to displace the DMF and cause the urethane to coagulate, and finally driving off the water by the application of pressure and heat. In this manner, pores are formed (not shown)," (please see col. 4 line 65 to col. 5 line 5).

Therefore, the patterns and textures of the present invention is different from cited '534.
